Mayor Wynne, of Raleigh, Enters Contest Again for Re-election

Special to The Telegram.

Raleigh, April 7.—Tonight J. Stan Wynne, mayor of Raleigh and extensively interested in Greensboro, also, declared that he is in the race for mayor in this campaign to a finish and to win in spite of his withdrawal from the contest three days ago, his withdrawal leaving James I. Johnson, his defeated opponent of two years ago, without opposition.

Wynne feels that undue influence was used to pull him down. At that time a statement was made by leaders of the good government forces, heretofore opponents of Johnson, that Johnson had promised to support a majority of their aldermanic ticket and they induced Wynne's retirement to gain Johnson strength for good government aldermen.

Wynne's return indicates a much more lively campaign than had been promised for some days.

Odell Employes Enjoyed Entertainment.

The employes' club of the Odell Hardware Company enjoyed an entertainment at the offices of the company last evening, which was attended by about fifty persons. There was games, music and refreshments for the pleasure of the assemblage.

MARTIN

Virginia Senator Defeats Shively, of Indiana, for Position of Floor Leader.

By Publishers' Press.

Washington, April 7.—Senator Martin of Virginia was today elected chairman of the Democratic conference, defeating Senator Shively of Indiana. The vote was 21 for Martin and 14 for Shively.

This action of the conference makes the Virginian minority floor leader in the Senate. Shively was the candidate of the progressives, and his defeat is taken to mean that a majority of the Democrats of the Senate have leanings toward the reactionary policies of the stand-pat Republicans.

You cannot step twice into the same stream, for as you are stepping in other and yet other waters flow on.

LORIMER

Case up Before Illinois Legislative Investigating Committee--Witnesses Subpoenaed.

By Publishers' Press.

Chicago, Ills., April 7.—George W. Zinn and Sergeant-at-Arms Helm of the investigation committee of the Illinois Legislature, are in the city tonight serving subpoenas on Chicagoans who will be questioned before the Legislature in regard to the $100,000 bribery fund alleged to have been raised and used to secure the election of Senator Lorimer. They have subpoenas for fifteen men and will serve them while in the city.

Further inquiry is being made into the charge by H. H. Kolsaat which resulted in the reopening of the Lorimer case.

Senator Lorimer arrived here early today from Johnstown, Pa., where he had investigated a mining device in company with a Chicago mining engineer. The senator went directly to the LaSalle Street National Bank, where he spent the earlier part of the day in looking after the bank business.

He declined to be interviewed in connection with the proceedings of the Helm committee at Springfield or with the story told before the committee by Clarence S. Funk, of the International Harvester Company, that his company had turned down an opportunity to contribute to an alleged $100,000 fund to elect the new Senator.

COUNTRY CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS

A meeting of the stockholders of the Greensboro Country Club will be held this evening at 8:15 o'clock in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of adopting a constitution and by-laws and electing a board of directors and officers. The club now has a membership of more than 100. A site has been purchased north of the city and the work of improving the property and erecting a club house and laying out grounds for amusement features will start at once. The Public Service Company will at the same time begin the work of constructing a car line to the club house, going up North Elm street.

SIXTY-TWO REPORTED DEAD IN MINE; 21 BODIES RECOVERED

By Publishers' Press.

Throop, Pa., April 7.—Sixty-two mine workers in the Case-Pan-coast mine here are reported to be dead, suffocated by smoke or burned to death as they dashed into flames in the hope of breaking through to the other side. Late tonight twenty-one bodies had been recovered. The victims, men and boys, were shut in the lower workings of the mine by flames which blocked their only way of escape, the bottom steps leading to the surface.

THE DECLAMATION AND RECITATION CONTEST WINNERS

Contestants From Cumberland and Durham Counties Were Successful—Efforts of Contestants Reflected Much Credit on Institutions They Represented.

Last evening in the opera house the first annual contest in declamation and recitation of the East Central Division of State Rural High Schools of North Carolina was held. Owing to the inclement weather only about two hundred people were present, but those who braved the weather declared that they were more than repaid. In fact the entertainment was one of the most interesting ever held in the city, being the first of the kind ever held in the state.

Two medals were presented, one to the young lady making the best recitation and one to the young man winning the declamation contest. In presenting the medals Hon. S. M. Gattis, of Hillsboro, made a short talk in which he congratulated the contestants for their excellent recitations and declamations. He also congratulated the state in having educational institutions that were so splendidly equipping young men and women as are the schools represented.

The medal for the best recitation was won by Miss Myrtle Bruton, of Cumberland county, who recited "The Soul of the Violin." The medal for the best declamation was won by Mr. Clarence Ross, of Durham county, whose subject was "Regulus to the Roman and Carthaginian Senates." The judges were Misses Frances Womble and Hunter Irvin, Dr. J. L. Mann, Dr. J. I. Foust and Hon. S. M. Gattis.

Twenty-one counties were represented at the preliminary contests held yesterday morning, at which the contestants for last night were selected. After the contest Prof. G. L. Walker, of Chapel Hill, who presided over the exercises, stated that he hoped the events would be made an annual affair, with an athletic meet added. He called on principals of the several high schools represented and these also spoke in favor of making the event an annual affair. All spoke of the great interest taken in their school in the contest and declared that the benefits would more than repay for the work put forth in preparation for the occasion.

The following were the contestants for the medals and their subjects:

Myrtle Bruton, Biscoe High School, Montgomery county—The Soul of the Violin.

R. K. Redwine, Churchland High School, Davidson county—The Mother of Men.

Ona Hodgin, Pleasant Garden High School, Guilford county—Biddie Dumps and Tot.

H. C. Benton, Cary High School, Wake county—The Conqueror.

Ethel Ross, East Durham High school, Durham county—In a Dream.

J. E. Kellis, Biscoe High School, Montgomery county—Americanism.

Mary Reddish, Cary High School, Wake county—In the Sign of the Cross.

Clarence Ross, East Durham High School, Durham county—Regulus to the Roman and Carthagianian Senates.

Viola Covington, Hawfields High School, Alamance county—Aunt Elnora's Hero.

Stacie Williard, Jamestown High School, Guilford county—The Famine.

Troy Harper, Wakelon High School, Wake county—Maid of Orleans.

Stella Davis, Pinnacle High School, Stokes county—Mona's Waters.

SPEAKS GUILTY OF SECOND DEGREE MURDER

Jury Rendered Verdict Yesterday Afternoon—Sentence Will Be Passed Today—Fight to Show Speaks Mentally Irresponsible Failed—May Get Thirty Years.

In Superior court yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock the jury in the case of State vs. Moses Speaks announced that they had agreed upon a verdict. Speaks was brought into court and the clerk took the verdict, which was guilty of murder in the second degree. This was the verdict asked for by the State. Judge Daniels announced that he would pronounce sentence this morning. The general impression is that Speaks will get about thirty years, the maximum sentence.

The taking of evidence was commenced yesterday morning and all had been introduced by noon. The evidence for the State was practically the same as introduced at the preliminary hearing, this having appeared in The Telegram at the time. The evidence of the defense was to show that the prisoner at the bar was mentally irresponsible for his actions, a number of witnesses being introduced to show that he was not of sound mind. However, the jury by their verdict declared that they believed Speaks was responsible for his deeds.

Hudson & Swift represented Speaks, the State being represented by Solicitor Gattis.

MUNICIPAL POLITICS IN CONCORD.

Concord, April 7.—Mayor C. B. Wagoner, Aldermen King, Cannon, Propst, Bruton and Brown of the present city administration, have announced themselves as candidates for re-nomination before the Democratic primaries, which will be called within a few days. Aldermen Barrier, of the present board, is the only member who has not announced himself as a candidate and states that he will not make the race, but it is thought that he will yield to the pressure of his friends and reconsider his action my getting in the race. J. M. Sills, manager of the Sills Lumber Co., has announced as a candidate from ward No. 1, being the only new man to enter the race so far. It is very probable that the Republicans will not put out a ticket.

MINERS

Entombed Below Burning Shafts in Pennsylvania--Rescue Almost Impossible.

By Publishers' Press.

Scranton, Pa., April 7.—There is apparently no hope for the rescue of the fifty miners entombed in the Bancroft mine of the Scranton Coal Company at Throop. This is the situation tonight. The men are 750 feet under ground, and flames have swept the entire vein and shafts, owing to the fact that the engine house caught fire.

Tonight the mine officials express the hope that the men may be rescued alive. They have been entombed throughout the day, however, below the flames, and it seems to be improbable that any of them will live to tell of the experience. Rescuers have arrived from Wilkesbarre and are stationed on the scene, but have been kept out of the mine by the fire.

TO TRY ALLEGED P. O. ROBBER IN SALISBURY

Robert Coletrane, who has been in Guilford jail since the first of the year awaiting trial in federal court on the charge of robbing a postoffice, has been removed to the Rowan jail at Salisbury. Coletrane is charged with breaking into and robbing the postoffice at Walnut Cove, the offense alleged having been committed last fall. It was at first thought that the case would be tried here, but it has been removed to the Salisbury court in order that it might be disposed of at the term beginning on April 25. The case would not have been tried until June had it remained on the docket of the Greensboro court.

THREE MILLION SLOWLY DYING OF HUNGER IN CHINA

By Publishers' Press.

Washington, April 7.—According to reports received here today by the State Department from Consul General Wilder, who is at Shanghai, three million natives are slowly dying of hunger in the country around Tsing Kian Pu, China, which four years ago was devastated by plague and famine. The situation is now growing worse, the Consul reports, and unless speedy relief is furnished the death rate will steadily increase.

MANY ASPIRE TO BE JUDGE

Claims of Candidates Laid Before Governor Kitchin By Their Friends.

Special to The Telegram.

Raleigh, April 7.—Governor Kitchin devoted practically all of today to receiving and hearing friends of the several candidates for the Fifteenth district superior court judgeship and in going through letters and recommendations. There were large numbers of additional telegrams and letters today and new delegations of friends of candidates coming in person to press the governor to make the appointment they desire. The contest is now conceded to be right down to a three-cornered status with Frank Carter, J. Sneed Adams and ex-Judge T. A. Jones as the "racers." It really looks now like a sort of "neck and neck" run for Carter and Adams with Jones mighty close behind. Here today in the interest of Adams today were Representative Gallatan Roberts and Ellis Gardner of Yancey county. They and others were given audience today for their candidate but they received no initiation as to prospects. Representative Williams, of Asheville, had a long conference with the governor in the interest of ex-Judge Jones, who is his law partner. The governor also heard Ed. Swain and Hugh Chedister in the interest of Frank Carter. There is strong probability that the appointment will be announced Saturday.

Words are wise man's counters; they do not reckon by them, but they are the money of fools.

HIGHWAY

Robbery at Rudd Yesterday Afternoon--- Three Men Rifle R. R. Shanty.

Yesterday afternoon about three o'clock three unknown men held up the inmates of a shanty car at Rudd, a station six miles north of the city, and took practically everything of value in the car. The cook and assistant were the only men in the shanty and when a big pistol was shoved in their faces they offered no resistance. The negroes in the car stated that the men were white and that they wore uniforms of some description, according to information received last night. Employees of a freight train also saw the three men going down the track prior to the hold-up. It is believed that the men hoboed their way on a freight to Rudd and then decided to investigate the contents of the shanty, which was sitting beside the track.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS AROUSED OVER COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENTS

By Publishers' Press.

Washington, April 7.—Following the refusal of the Democrats to give up any more committee assignments to the Republicans or to restore the proportion heretofore existing in the matter of committee assignments between the two parties, the Republican leaders of the House held their first formal conference here tonight. The conference was held in the office of Minority Leader Mann and after adjournment Mr. Mann gave out a statement in which he arraigned the Democrats for what he called their "unfair arbitrary and brutal action in trampling on the rights of the minority."

THE ELECTION OF COMMISSIONERS FOR GREENSBORO.

Undoubtedly the present time is a critical point in the life of this city. Greensboro has reached that stage of growth where much greater development is certain if the right course is pursued by its citizens, but a point at which a false step is calculated to mar the future of the city and probably arrest its growth and, to a considerable extent, destroy its prosperity. This is true regardless of the fact that Greensboro is about to make the experiment of trying the commission form of government. This fact adds largely to the gravity of the situation and makes it doubly important that the right steps should be taken in inaugurating the new form of government and in steering the course of the municipality during the next few years.

The commission form of government is an experiment for Greensboro. It is not untried elsewhere and it has made good in ninety-nine cases in a hundred where it has been given a fair trial; but the success of commission government like government under old forms, depends largely upon the men in control. Undoubtedly the commission system is an improvement over the old form and, therefore, the commissioners will have its advantages in their favor and will begin their work with fewer handicaps than the old system imposed upon the officials of the city.

Nevertheless, to a great extent, the success of commission government here will depend upon the men elected to fill the commissionerships. Hence the importance of electing the right men to hold these positions.

The Telegram does not believe it a matter of any consequence what political faction (if there be factions here) the commissioners selected may be aligned with; but, doubtless, it would be to the best interests of the city to elect men who are not, and never have been, aligned with any faction. In an overwhelmingly Democratic city, the commissioners undoubtedly should be Democrats; but this as a matter of policy rather than as an essential qualification. The main thing to be considered in electing the commissioners is the character and business qualifications of the men who offer for the positions.

The commission government is designed to give the city adopting it a business administration of public affairs. The affairs of a city are chiefly business affairs in their nature, and there is more or less business connected with every department of municipal government. Therefore, it would be extremely unfortunate for Greensbooro if any but first class business men should be elected commissioners. Some of the departments demand that the men who supervise them should possess special or technical qualifications. This fact should be borne in mind in filling these positions. However, we believe that, after all, the main thing to be considered in filling the commissionerships is some characteristics of human nature which have not been mentioned.

Greensboro has made some reputation as a progressive city. It is known as a place which has grown in less than two decades from a small town to proportions which make it one of the largest and most important places in the State. What has been accomplished here must have been accomplished by men of large ideas and liberal views of business, industry and commerce. Such development cannot be forced and such success cannot be attained by men who are narrow between the eyes, who are unprogressive, whose views are illiberal. The expenditure of an immense amount of energy, the investment of capital, and unselfish devotion to the public interests on the part of a large number of citizens have been necessary to bring Greensboro to its present position of prosperity and progress.

Without knowing anything about the details of this feature of the city's life, The Telegram ventures the assertion that tightwads, kickers, knockers, selfish, grasping citizens have had but little part in the building of Greensboro. Men of this caliber have but little part in doing anything worth while. They may gather together a little of this world's goods to themselves, but they do it by means spurned and despised by men of broad minds and progressive ideas. Men who belong to the classes enumerated are a clog on the wheels of progress and a hindrance to the growth and development of any community. One thing the citizens of Greensboro ought to be certain of is that no man of this character is elected to a commissionership.

It is imperative at this time, and especially so in view of the fact that the commission is to govern the city, that the commissioners should be men of the highest and best type of modern, progressive, broad minded, unselfish men. The commissioners should not be men who will block the growth of Greensboro by their small ideas and narrow views of business and public matters; and while the people want the city government economically adminstered, we do not believe they desire to place in office men who will refuse to spend a dollar for development when it is certain that the dollar will purchase two dollars worth or ten dollars worth of benefit for the city. We believe the people want commissioners who will attend strictly to business, in a careful and conservative manner, but who can see far enough in advance of the ends of their noses to make the most of every opportunity which is presented to further the prosperity of the city.

We believe the people want commissioners who will conduct city affairs with consideration for the present and an eye to the future and not as if Greensboro were a country village. This place has too much population and too great interests to be regarded any longer as a country crossroads. Men who believe in doing things in the village style will not fit into the commissionerships in Greensboro. The village style is all right for villages, but a different system and different methods must be employed to secure satisfactory results in a city.

These are some of the qualifications, it seems to The Telegram absolutely essential in the men who are to be the first commissioners of the city. We know of no better way in which to measure men for these positions than by the record they have made as citizens. If the position to be filled requires the possession of technical or practical knowledge, that fact should be given due weight in the measurement of candidates; but the man elected to a position of this nature should, also, be a business man and a broad minded, liberal spirited, progressive citizen.

The records of the candidates who have so far offered for the commissionerships are doubtless well known to a majority of the voters of the city. What of their private lives and business reputations? If they measure up to the required standard in these respects they have an excellent basis upon which to go before the voters soliciting their support. If, however, any of the candidates have reputations as citizens and business men which entitle them to be branded as unprogressive, as obstructionists, as narrow in their views in regard to the city's welfare and future, no progressive citizen who desires to see Greensboro grow and prosperous should make the mistake of voting for these men.

The man who is objectionable in his views, in his ideas, in his methods as a citizen and business man will be objectionable as a commissioner of the city. The man who is unprogressive, little, narrow in his private life, who is an obstructionist, a knocker, a kicker, a tightwad in his private affairs, will be the same sort of man in the office of commissioner of this city; and he will be much more objectionable as a commissioner than as a citizen, because as a commissioner he will be in position to injure the interests of the entire city, while as a citizen he is in position to do little damage to any interests except his own.

Measure the men who are offering for commissionerships or who may offer later, by their records as citizens and as business men. If they measure up to the specifications as men they will measure up to the demands of the duties of a commissioner.

For the welfare of the city for all time to come; and in order that Greensboro's experiment with commission government may evolve from the experimental stage into complete success, the voters should proceed carefully and cast their ballots only for the best men who offer for the commissionerships. This should be done regardless of personal friendships or enmities, regardless of factions, and only with regard to individual fitness and qualifications for the offices.

Manufacturing makes towns says the Wilmington Star. There is no room for discussion of this point, but it has to be emphasized continuously in order to hold half the people in line on the proposition to get more factories. That is about the condition in Greensboro, and it is even worse, no doubt, in Wilmington, where it seems that most of the people do not yet realize the value of industries.

Two prominent newspapers of the State which had been carrying much advertising for liquor dealers, recently cut out this sort of business, which was proper as The Landmark sees it, and these papers have been highly commended for their action. However, the commendation of those who have lately come into the fold is in accordance with the Scripture as recorded in Luke, 15:7. LABOR NOTES

The Smith Agriculaural Chemical Company, of Columbus, O., with a capital of $1,000,000, one of the largest independent manufacturers of farm fertilizer, will erect a plant in Indianapolis.

Men who employ others to work for them invariably give the preference to men of temperate habits. "The drinking man" is not so efficient as the temperate man.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The Missouri legislature passed a bill making it a felony for any person or corporation to make any false statement, about his or its financial condition with a view to procuring further credit or loans.

Mayor McCarthy presided at the recent meeting of the Building Trades Council of San Francisco. G. S. Brower and James French commended Governor Johnson for the assistance he has rendered the labor movement.

A petition of the saloon proprietors of South San Francisco requesting that they be permitted to keep their resorts open until 1 o'clock at night was refused by the city council. The present closing time is 11 o'clock.

The steamer Walters, a 600-foot steel vessel was launched at Lorain, O., last week—fifty working days after the keel was laid. All this was done without overtime or night work. It stands, it is said, in the shipbuilding world unparalleled.

The manager of one of the light companies of the western part of the country has greatly facilitated the business of making the monthly readings of meters by having these instruments placed on the rear porches of houses instead of in the cellars.

Because of a system that kept a count of the number of bricks they laid an hour and paid bonuses for the best service, bricklayers employed in the Union Paper Bag Company's plant at Hudson Falls, N. Y., are on strike.

The first step toward equal pay for women teachers in the public schools of New York was taken by the board of education last week, when it adopted resolutions of the elementary school committee calling for a reduction in the pay of men teachers hereafter to be appointed.

In Hamilton, Ont., all the supplies needed by the city are union made and have the union label upon them. The police and firemen wear union-made suits, all the city printing bears the union label, and even the shoes of the horses used by the fire department are union stamped.

Salt Lake City, Utah, laundry workers walked out when the proprietors refused to recognize the union. Twenty-two hundred union men and women, of which approximately 300 were laundry workers, with banners flying, and headed by a brass band, paraded the principal streets of the city.

A Noble Youth.

In the Bodleian library at Oxford is a most touching record of heroism and self sacrifice on the part of a child.

The lower door of St. Leonard's church, Bridgeworth, was left open, and two young boys, wandering in, were tempted to mount to the upper part and scramble from beam to beam.

All at once a joist gave way. The beam on which they were standing became displaced. The elder had just time to grasp it when falling, while the younger, slipping over his body, caught hold of his comrade's legs. In this fearful position the poor lads hung, crying vainly for help, for no one was near.

At length the boy clinging to the beam became exhausted. He could no longer support the double weight. He called out to the lad below that they were both done for.

"Could you save yourself if I were to loose you?" asked the younger lad.

"I think I could," returned the elder.

"Then goodby, and God bless you!" said the little fellow, loosing his hold.

Another second and he was dashed to pieces on the stone floor below.

THE CASTLE IN THE AIR.

LIKE the mirage of the desert,
With its promise falsely fair;
Like the treasure laden rainbow,
Is the castle in the air.

DISPEL not the sweet illusion
With a look of mute despair.
High your castle should be built, with
Snow crowned turrets in the air.

IN the earthly race of mortals
Glory's halo would you wear?
Then put a rock foundation
'Neath your castle in the air.

THE LAND OF PUZZLEDOM.

No. 1266.—Homonym.

To lie about in careless ease
Beneath the overspreading trees
That border on a purling brook,
With PRIMAL breath and FINAL hook,
Is recreation sure to please.

Caressed by every wanton breeze
That brings the droning of the bees,
'Tis sheer delight in some such nook
To lie about.

What though the fish refuse to seize
And bites are limited to fleas,
You still may boast by hook or crook
The monster trout you almost took.
There are a hundred things like these
To lie about.

No. 1267.—Charade.

You'll often find me overhead
Or sleeping in a sandy bed,
And when I journey to and fro
I often backward seem to go.
I'm in the sky; I'm on the shore.
You've eaten me and asked for more.
—Youth's Companion.

No. 1268.—Transposition In Riddle.

I am at home within the southern sea,
And ships have often come to grief through me,
And yet I hang about my lady's chain
And in her jewel case am often lain.
But when transposed I fall upon the ear.
I live in harmony, and once a year
I tell the holiday at early morn
And herald news of one who once was born.

No. 1269.—Transformation In Union.

English is hard to learn. Here are (1) six letters that, divided properly mean without evil; joined they mean a tyro. Six others would seem to mean (2) an order to smash something; united, they name a kind of desk. (3) A conjunction and gnawed in one word mean a path; (4) within and imagination mean childhood; (5) ocean and boy, a division of time; (6) a microbe and an indefinite quantity name a country. I am going to give up and try to learn (7) a personal pronoun joined to something boiled and mingled.

No. 1270.—Bird Puzzle.

What birds are represented?

No. 1271.—Riddle.

I'm thinking of something nice and sweet, yet 'tis nothing good to eat. It may be short, but can't be small; it may be long, but can't be tall, for it has no dimension at all. It is not useful, it is not pretty, it is not wise, it is not witty. Though it costs not a cent, make no mistake; it is precious to those who give or take.

No. 1272.—Omitted Word.

Put the same word in all the blanks.

* * * * said he would surely get the * * * * and find out whether the clerk would * * * * the other goods to me at once. I want to do a * * * * ion things this morning, so I sent * * * * to do my errand for me. He went off with a large * * * * in his pocket, and I told him he would need a stout * * * * y to protect himself should any one waylay him.

No. 1273.—Curtailings.

1. Curtail that which is pleasant in temperature and leave a fierce conflict between men. 2. Doubly curtail an angle in a room and leave a kind of grain. 3. Doubly curtail the name of a parent and leave a destroying insect.

Transpositions.

Transpose a vegetable and make an animal that resembles man; a tool for piercing and make a statute; a conjunction and make a large vessel used for washing; a body of fresh water and make a hole or fissure that lets a fluid in or out; the home of a wild beast and make a boy's nickname.

Answers: Pea-ape, awl-law, but-tub, lake-leak, den-ned.

Key to Puzzledom.

No. 1260.—Anagram: Catastrophe.
No. 1261.—Charades: 1. May, flower, Mayflower. 2. Fan, Tom, phantom. 3. Ann, I (Annie), May, shun, animation.
No. 1262. — Orthographical Puzzle: War, eh, ouse, warehouse.
No. 1263.—Nation Puzzle: Finland, Italy, Siberia, Denmark, Cuba.
No. 1264.—Divided Words: Artichoke, marigold, herring, father.

New Lynchburg Line of Southern Opened.

Washington, D. C., April 7.—Southern Railway passenger trains between Washington and the South will begin using the new double track low grade line through Lynchburg, Va., on Sunday, April 16, according to announcement made today by Vice President and General Manager E. H. Coapman. Freight trains have been operated over this line for several weeks and the beginning of passenger service will mark the full use of this very remarkable piece of railroad improvement.

The revision through Lynchburg, Va., was begun nearly five years ago and has involved an entire change of line for seven miles, a double track on very favorable grades taking the place of the old single track. A steel bridge 1860 feet long and 150 feet high over the James river and a tunnel 1300 feet long under Rivermont, a suburb of Lynchburg, are the principal features of the improvement which will greatly facilitate the handling of freight and passenger traffic to and from all parts of the South.

The old line will be retained for local freight and passenger service, this being in accordance with the wishes of the citizens of Lynchburg.

For Stripling Will Doubtless be Outcome of Stripling Hearing Before Georgia Prison Commission—Commission Unanimous for Pardon—Case Goes to Governor.

Atlanta, Ga., April 7.—If Governor Brown acts favorably upon the recommendation of the State Prison Board, Thomas Edgar Stripling, who shot and killed B. J. Cornett in Harris county, Ga., fourteen years ago and afterwards escaped to Danville, Va., where he became chief of police, will go back to his family a free man. After one of the most sensational and interesting hearings ever witnessed, the State Pardon Board today unanimously voted that he be pardoned.

Stripling's plea that when he killed William J. Cornett fourteen years ago he was acting under the unwritten law, largely influenced the commission in recommending his pardon. The evidence that moved the commission more than any other was statements against Cornett's character and recitations of how he had insulted Stripling's wife and sister. The commission also seemed to be of the opinion that the fourteen years of good citizenship that Stripling spent after killing Cornett proved that he was not a menace to society and entitled him to his liberty. A thousand people had in one way or another petitioned for Stripling. Pardon letters had been written to the newspapers, petitions had been signed and addressed to the commission and preachers had made Striplings' pardon their text.

No petition for pardon has ever created as much excitement not only in Georgia but throughout the entire South as this. Opinions everywhere honestly differ as to whether Stripling should be pardoned or not. Atlanta seems pretty evenly divided.

The present opinion as to the outcome seems to be that Governor Brown will not sanction the action of the board; that the Governor will either refuse any clemency whatever, or that he will agree only to a commutation of the sentence to a short term. This, however, is only speculation. Relatives of Stripling hope that even in the event Governor Brown turns the recommendation down, Governor-elect Smith will free the prisoner when he succeeds to the chair.

Part of Interurban Shops to Be Located in Greenville.

Greenville, S. C., April 7.—According to an official of the Piedmont & Northern interurban electric railway, the road will have shops in Greenville, and there is now considerable speculation as to where they will be located. Whether the plant will be the main shops of the road is not stated, though it has been learned that the interurban company has an option on the Theorn Marle place, near the auxiliary plant of the Southern Power Company, which lends color to the belief that the shops will probably be located in that vicinity. The grading between Belton and Greenwood on the road is progressing rapidly, there being three separate gangs at work.

The Self Balanced Pail.

You lay a stick across the table, letting one third of it project over the edge, and you undertake to hang a pail of water on it without either fastening the stick on the table or letting the pail rest on any support, and this feat the laws of gravitation will enable you literally to accomplish.

You take a pail of water and hang it by the handle upon the projecting end of the stick in such a manner that the handle may rest on it in an inclined position, with the middle of the pail within the edge of the table. That it may be fixed in this situation place another stick with one of its ends resting against the side at the bottom of the pail and its other end against the first stick, where there should be a notch to retain it. By these means the pail will remain fixed in that situation without being able to incline to either side, nor can the stick slide along the table or move along its edge without raising the center of gravity of the pail and the water it contains.

Women and Society

Other People's Children

By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD.

How different, we say, we would bring these children up if we had them, and how badly they are being brought up by those who do have them!

In what cold blood do we look at them? They are not always children to us—the lovely, blossoming things. They are little men and women, our neighbors in miniature, having the traits of their ancestors, of which traits we are apt, through our family gossip, to know more than the descendants of those ancestors do themselves, repeating this uncle or that aunt, or the old grandfather long gone, and exciting our animadverson—or, not so often, possibly our admiration—by the fact.

Moreover, we forget in looking at them that we were ever children ourselves; we speak and think of them as being of a separate species, not quite of a lower order perhaps, and not quite cherubs certainly. But we expect of the little creatures whom we are unable to class the virtures and often the behavior of the grown folks, and we in our loftiness are capable of ruining their reputations and giving them a name that it will take years of right living on their part in the future to overcome, if their little vagaries do not suit our own whims while the high animal spirits of their happy years lead them into pranks that are not in conformity with our own staid and quiet way of life, in which the fermentation is over; and, stern critics that we are, we sit in judgment like those that break butterflies upon wheels.

They would never conduct themselves in this fashion if we had them, or if we had them in season.

It is a question whether these views are not better hidden in the depths of our own consciousness than given to the world of friends and neighbors. They certainly do no good to ourselves to the children, or to the parents of the children.

On the contrary, the expression of them only serves to exasperate the parents and to irritate ourselves to still further expression, till one listening would suppose from our conversation that all the children we knew were candidates for the gallows.

The encouragement of these views may have, besides, a hardening and injurious effect upon ourselves, which would be a pity, when they arise from so evident a desire to improve humanity, for they must lead us all the time into the habit of seeing more evil than good—a habit whose aim is easily transferable to objects of more advanced years and equal terms, and they must cause us to yield as unlovely an appearance as those do who do not care for children at all, good or bad, and do not criticise their behavior, not from any want of hostility, but from complete indifference; people to whom children are like flies and night moths, evils to be endured, since there is no way of being rid of them if the lamps are lighted. For our own sakes, then, as well as theirs, if we cannot praise them, it might be well to pause before letting ourselves get into the habit of condemning other people's children.

The True Home Life

By JOHN WATSON WHYTE.

A true and noble home-life calls out all the powers and qualities which the world needs for its work and its progress. The good learner, as a rule, is a good workman; the good son is a good citizen; the young champion of weakness in the nursery or in the playground will one day stretch his shield benighly over a wider world.

What the Levant, a small, sunny, landlocked sea, girded by shores of radiant beauty and rich fertility, was to the infant enterprise of our race, wooing the timid sailors forth, and training the courage, the skill and the breast the billows of the great ocean and overrun the world, that the home circle is to the young sailors on the sea of life.

It draws forth, under soft and sweet constraints, the manliest powers and the gentlest graces, all the strength and beauty of the nature, all that makes minds keen, hearts glad, souls strong, hands resolute and victorious.

And if with them baser, fiercer and more brutal passions spring, the home teaches men the secret of training them, in the little sacred circle in which love inspires the effort and blesses the success. All the action of the drama of life gets a rehearsal before a little, loving company.

Under the eye of parents and brethren it is not so hard to confess error, to suffer failue and to retrace false steps; while we draw from them a sympathy; a fresh inspiration, and a resolution that knows no rest until it has won the battle and grasped the prize.

POINTS ON NEEDLEWORK

By FRANCES WILEY.

Needlecraft may be divided into two kinds—that which is done on a fabric held in the hand, and that which is done on a fabric stretched on a frame. The most dainty style is frame embroidery, and the first thing, therefore, to learn for a work of this description, which is to have any considerable extension, is how it should be framed.

The simple bar frame, not so expensive as the finished standing embroidery frame, can be adapted to various pieces of work, as it is possible to make it larger or smaller at will. The best and simplest way to set it up is by putting cross slats through openings made in the heavier side bars, and securing these by iron pegs put through gimlet holes.

Frames can be made from six to eight feet long, and the means of adjusting fabric is corded all the way round with same. The frames should be laced on all four sides, and after being set up in the desired size and secured with screws, the fabrics is corded all the way round with ordinary tying twine. The fabric, after being turned over the twine about half an inch, should be sewn with floss silk, which for that use is preferable to cotton. Care must be taken to sew the corners very firmly, as they bear most of the strain.

A large upholstery needle should be used for lacing the fabrics on the frame. Begin in the middle of one side and lace in each direction, putting the needle under the corded edge and drawing the cord, which should be a firmly twisted cotton twine, through the distance of several yards.

Lace the other sides in the same way, draw the threads so as to place the fabric perfectly straight along the sides of the other bars, tighten two opposite sides, lace the third one and give the final stretch by tightly lacing the fourth. Loop the end of the cord through the lacing stitches, and draw up each stitch so as to tighten the whole.

A simple frame can be made with two rounds hoops, which should be wrapped with flannel and firmly set together with the fabric between them. This is laid over the smaller hoop, and the larger one is pressed down over it. It may then be drawn straight to the grain so as to become very tight. There are many various devices for fastening this hoop to the table so that one can work with both hands on it, just as in a bar frame.

To embroider initial letters on linen a ring frame, which can be held on the table with a weight, is generally used. It is composed of a circle cut out of solid board; the fabric is laid over the ring, which can be fixed tightly into this circle.

When a worker is really accomplished in the art of needlecraft she then has a tool in hand which enables here to earn a good salary by making trousseaux and lingerie, either for private customers of the business houses. The principal qualities required to succeed are infinite patience and perseverance, based, like everything else, on a natural disposition.

But when the work is found congenial this, combined with nimble fingers, goes to accomplish marvels, and if we are privileged enough to have a talent of some kind there is no reason why we should not derive practical benefit from it.

THE GOING, GROWING INDUSTRIES OF GREATER GREENSBORO.

II. WYSONG AND MILES COMPANY, MANUFACTURERS WOOD WORKING MACHINERY.

Plant of the Wysong and Miles Company.

A representative of The Telegram had the pleasure of going through the plant of the Wysong & Miles Company recently, when the question was asked, What is going to be the outcome of the continual increase of business being done by your company? The answar was that Greensboro will in the near future be the largest manufacturing center in the world for woodworking machinery.

When asked for the reason, Mr. Wysong stated that 20 years ago he asked a gentleman from New England why it was not practical to manufacture wood working machinery in the South and the answer was that, in the first place, we did not have the mechanics and could not train them and that the people in the North would never buy machinery made in the South. Mr. Wysong said that statement from this gentleman impressed him as being absurd and he set about to see what could be done to demonstrate that the South is an ideal place to manufacture woodworking machinery. He later secured a position with one of the western manufacturers, at that time the largest in the United States. He traveled on the road for ten years for this firm, selling their machinery, and acquired a large amount of general information regarding where and how wood working machinery was being manufactured and sold.

About 1902 G. H. Miles and O. C. Wysong entered into the manufacturing of some special machines in a small way in this city, in a small building 40x50 feet. In a year or so it was necessary to interest Cook-Lewis Foundry Company in order to supply castings for Wysong & Miles Company. Some few years later, the Newman Machine Company had their attention called to the success being made by Wysong & Miles Company and they were induced to move from the North and build a plant in Greensboro, which has been successful; and because of the demand for castings in this section of the town, W. B. Cook moved from Winston-Salem, giving two foundries and two large machine shops, all devoted to wood working machinery.

The Wysong & Miles Company has covered practically all of the United States with their salesmen and the demand has become so great for their machinery that it has been found necessary to re-organize and re-capitalize the Standard Boiler & Machine Company and largely convert that plant to the manufacture of wood working machinery to take care of the demands made upon the Wysong & Miles Company for their products. It is a fact that more new inventions and patents have been taken out and practical machines placed on the market by the Wysong & Miles Company than has been done by all of the wood working machine companies in the United States. So much has this attracted the attention of other manufacturers that practically every one of them has sent representatives to Greensboro during the past few months to look into the progress that this company is making. It is also a fact that foreigners from different sections of the world have come across the water to visit Greensboro because of the character of machinery that has been advertised from this center.

There are at this time twelve of the best trained salesmen in the United States traveling for Wysong & Miles Company covering practically every State in the Union, and the business has doubled in the past twelve months. The Wysong & Miles Company is now about the third or fourth largest plant of its kind in the United States and if this has been done in the past eight or nine years, it is certainly very conservative to say that in ten years more Greensboro will be the largest wood working machine manufacturing center in the world.

In going through the plant of the Wysong & Miles Company the reporter saw in operation machines mortising chair backs, chair posts and boring square holes, all at a very rapid rate. The latest machine brought out by this company is an Automatic Dovetailing machine which has about seven times the capacity of any machine of its kind on the market.

There is now in the employ of Wysong & Miles Company, Cook-Lewis Foundry Company, Standard Boiler & Machine Company, Newman Machine Company and W. B. Cook Foundry, something like 250 men, all engaged in the manufacturing of wood working machinery.

The Wysong & Miles Company is adding several rooms to their office. The Newman Machine Company will build a new machine room in the next sixty days and the Standard Boiler & Machine Works will have to increase their plant at an early date.

SUIT FOR ONE CENT.

Member of Greenville, S. C., Bar Sues Telephone Company—Verdict Favors Defendant—Will Take Case to Supreme Court.

Greenville, S. C., April 7.—A suit for one cent damages is an unusual thing, even in these days of freak litigation, but such a cause has just been heard in the common pleas court of Greenville, after having been on the roster for three years or more. On either side was arrayed able and astute counsel and the issue fought for valiantly and hotly.

The suit was brought by D. Lewis Dorroh, a member of the local bar and former member of the county legislative delegation, against the Southern Bell Telephone Company, the complaint on which the suit was based set forth as follows:

The plaintiff, in endeavoring to get telephone connection with the country club, could not find the name so listed in the directory and called for the desired connection without giving the number, as required by the rules of the telephone corporation. The whole contention in the argument of the case hinged on the fact that the country club was listed in the directory under the name of "San Souci Country Club," under which name the club is chartered.

A sealed verdict was returned in the case, which upon being opened in court this morning was found to be in favor of the defendant telephone company. Now Mr. Dorrah declares his intention of taking his case to the Supreme Court of the State for review.

Truthful.

Harry—"What did Kate say when you proposed to her?"

Frank—"She said 'Yes.'"

Harry—"Then she is really going to marry you?"

Frank—"Oh, dear no! What put that in your head? The question I asked was: "Do you prefer to remain single rather than accept me?'"

The hand that gives gathers.

Charlotte, April 7.—Wm. S. Lee, vice-president and chief engineer of the Southern Power Company and one of the leading promoters of the interurban development, is making such a rapid recovery from a late operation for appendicitis in New York that he is expected to be able to return home at an early date. The operation was entirely successful and Mr. Lee rallied so rapidly and so encouragingly from the ordeal that his physician advised that he would not be detained from his duties here any longer than was absolutely necessary to regain his strength. The operation was performed at Dr. Gil Wylie's hospital in New York City. Mr. Lee's return to the city and to his office will mean the continuation of active preparations for equipping the interurban, many of the contracts having been held up in his absence.

Elisha's Heavenly Defenders. 2 Kings vi:8-23.

Golden Text—For He shall give His angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. Ps. 91:11.

(1.) Verses 8-10—Were wars ever really necessary?

(2.) Will wars ever cease, and what are the signs?

(3.) How did Elisha find out what the plans of the King of Syria were?

(4.) What reason is there, if any, to believe that some men to-day, are able to tell what is in the minds of others?

(5.) Is mind reading any more wonderful than other phenomena with which we are familiar, for example wireless telegraphy?

(6.) Will there ever be any regrettable events in the life of any man who carefully obeys the voice of God in his soul?

(7.) Verse 11—If a man's plans are repeatedly unsuccessful is that a sure sign, or not, that they are not of God? Why?

(8.) Verse 12—Was Elisha's ability to tell what the King of Syria was saying when at a great distance from him, natural or supernatural?

(9.) Are clairvoyants, clairaudients, and others who claim similar powers noted for their spirituality?

(10.) Verses 13-14—Why did Elisha allow himself to be shut up in Dothan if he knew all the King of Syria was doing?

(11.) What reason, if any, is there to believe that God sometimes plans to get his children into a tight, or dangerous place?

(12.) Which good man at the end of life is the better off, the one who has had a constant fight with opposing forces all through life, or the one who has had an easy time, and why? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(13.) Verse 15—Was the fear displayed by Elisha's servants natural and free from all blame? Why?

(14.) Why, or why not, should a Christian be blamed if his heart trembles in the presence of grave difficulties?

(15.) Verse 16—Would any man ever fear if he knew the full mind of God, and was his true follower?

(16.) Verse 17—Where is the spirit world?

(17.) What reason is there for the belief that we are surrounded by spiritual intelligences?

(18.) Is there any reason to think that our spiritual visions can be cultivated to see, and our ears to hear, the spirits by whom we are encompassed?

(19.) Verse 18—Did God smite the entire army with blindness or only the officers?

(20.) Verse 19—Did Elisha lie to the Syrians?

(21.) What is a lie?

(22.) Was Elisha justified in deceiving the Syrians?

(23.) Verses 20-23—When we have our enemy in our power should we do to him as he had tried to do to us?

(24.) What is the best way to treat an enemy when he is in our power?

Lesson for Sunday, April 16th, 1911. Joash, the Boy King, Crowned in Judah. 2 Kings xi:1-20.

Talk to Mothers.

There is need in the home for cuts, bruises, sores and sprains, children and others are heirs to a real good antiseptic liniment, one which will not burn and hurt worse than the wound itself, and which will give the greatest relief and prevent scars. Vick's Liniment is prepared for this purpose. Take this suggestion from a trained druggist who knows.

Andrew Carnegie's Story.

Andrew Carnegie at a recent dinner in Washington said that too many self-made men neglect the intellectual side. This sometimes puts them at a disadvantage.

"I know a self-made man who said to his nephew:

"Well, Tommy, my boy, what do they teach you at school?"

"Latin and Greek," the boy replied, "and German and algebra."

"Dear me!" cried the self-made man. "And what's the algebra for turnip?"

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lessons the Prizes Again.

Our Bible Question Local Club is looking up and we are much encouraged. It is very remarkable how these questions interest, even the general public. It is a mistake to suppose, as some do, that this contest is confined exclusively to adults. Bright boys and girls can take up these simple studies, and may comply with the conditions as well as their seniors, and are just as likely to win a solid gold medal or one of the other prizes. The prime object of this Bible Question Club is to get old and young to reading the Sunday School Lessons, and to ponder the Suggestive Questions. It must not be forgotten that in answering questions it is legitimate to get all the help which is necessary. Anybody can cut out and sign the coupon each week, and can read the lesson and the questions. This does not take skill, but it does take method, and it means the unspeakable benefit of reading these studies from week to week. You will find it to be a great benefit to join some Bible Class, and get the help and enthusiasm which comes from company.

You will need The Telegram in order to read the questions and get the necessary coupon; you had better subscribe at once. If you are a subscriber, then send the paper to some person whom you think this course of reading will help. Send in your subscription now, and get the benefit of the special rate. Use the attached coupon.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The Sound Sleep of Good Health.

Can not be over estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southers, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock, my general condition is greatly improved, and I know that Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Howard Gardner.

If your illness is caused by female trouble, you can quickly get the right remedy to get well. It's Cardui. This great medicine, for women, has relieved or cured thousands of ladies, suffering like you from some female trouble.

Mrs. Fannie Ellis, of Foster, Ark., suffered agony for seven years. Read her letter about Cardui. She writes: "I was sick for seven years with female trouble. Every month I would very nearly die with my head and back. I took 12 bottles of Cardui and was cured. Cardui is a God-send to suffering women." Try it.

NEW WASHINGTON STORY FOUND IN AN OLD NORTH CAROLINA ALMANAC

A copy of the Farmers' and Planters' Almanac, published in 1845, is the property of A. T. Hanna of this city. Mr. Hanna was born that year and he has kept the old almanac all his life and prizes it very highly.

There are in this old relic many interesting things, probably one of those of most striking interest is the calendar of the State government of North Carolina; for the old book was published for the benefit of the citizens of the two Carolinas, though it circulated for general purposes also in Tennessee.

John M. Morehead at that time held the office of governor at a salary of $2,000. William W. Kitchen is now governor of the State and for his services draws an annual salary exactly twice as large. As secretary to Governor Morehead, Pryor Reynolds held the job at a $300 salary with the fees of the office. What the latter amounted to is unknown.

The councilors of the State under Governor Morehead were: Thomas N. Cameron of Cumberland, David Watson of Chatham, Alex W. Mebane of Bertie, Gabriel Hobnes of New Hanover, James Watt of Rockingham, Henry Fitts of Warren and Henry W. Connor of Lincoln.

Willie Hill was secretary of State at a salary of $800 and fees; C. B. Wheeler held down the office of State Treasurer at an annual stipend of $1,300, while William F. Collins served the State in the capacity of comptroller for $1,000.

The justices of the Supreme Court were: Thomas Ruffin, chief justice; Fred Nash and Joseph J. Daniel associates, all at a salary of $2,500.

Among the judges of the Supreme Court was R. M. Pearson, the grandfather of the Hon. Richmond Pearson Hobson of Alabama, and among the court solicitors was one David Outlaw. Judge Pearson was subsequently chief justice of the Supreme Court for 40 years.

There are many other interesting features in the old book with reference to both North and South Carolina courts and government, and it gives the names of the chief officials of the United States government. John Tyler was president at that time and was glad to take the job at $25,000. Mr. Taft is paid $75,000 with an annual sum of $25,000 for railroad expenses.

The old almanac contains a story of a village vaulting contest with the beautiful daughter of a rich old man as the prize. The old father had been an athlete himself and was anxious if his daughter married that she be joined to a man of his particular skill, and so he offered his daughter as a prize to the young man who could show himself able to make the longest jump on the green sward in front of the village inn.

The young lady, of course, had her choice among the contestants, but under the terms her father had proposed she was about to be denied the right of choice. A dozen or so entered for the contest, each jumping farther than his predecessor, and the blushing girl for whose hand each was putting forth all his strength, stood and looked on. Finally, her lover, Henry Carroll, made a leap and outstripped his competitors, clearly winnig the girl as matters yet stood, but suddenly there rode up to the inn a handsome young man in military attire, and being informed about the contest, asked the father of the blushing girl if the contest was open to all, and on being informed that it was, said he would like to try for the prize. Making ready, he vaulted over the mark made by the girl's lover and was declared by the judges to be the winner.

Approaching the young lady who stood blushing and embarrassed, he soon discovered that she preferred that Henry Carroll should have been the winner, whereupon he gallantly surrendered his claim to Mr. Carroll.

A few years later, Henry Carroll became a colonel in the American army, then under the command of General George Washington, though the two men, it appeared from the story; had never met.

One afternoon while Colonel Carroll was sitting on his porch, a courier approached and informed the colonel that General George Washington was approaching and would spend the night with him.

The general was admitted to the hospitality of the Carroll home, of course, and at the supper table was recognized by Mrs. Carroll as the athletic young man who had won her in the vaulting contest of some years before, but who had surrendered his claim to Colonel Carroll, her husband.—Anniston, Ala., Star.

FLYER

Beachy's Flight Successful, But Program Not Carried Out as Published.

Between twelve and fifteen hundred people went to the fair grounds yesterday afternoon to witness the airship flights given by Lincoln Beachey. Fully a thousand gathered on an adjoining hillside, climbed trees and house-tops to see the daring aviator rise in the air like a bird. Two exhibitions were given, the machine being under the control of the operator at all times. Those who went out and paid an admission felt that they got their money's worth in seeing the machine leave the ground and descend again. However, the third filght was not given and a number paid an admission without getting an opportunity of seeing the machine in the air. The hours as advertised were from 3:30 to 5:30 and a number arrived after half past four. The two flights lasted something like twenty minutes. The aviator first leaving the ground at 4:10 and remaining up about four minutes. The second time he was in the air eight or ten minutes. Therefore he flew less than half an hour, while it had been stated that he would fly two hours.

The machine appears to be a simple one, constructed of light but exceedingly strong timber and steel and heavy canvass. The aviator controls the machine by wires fastened to the rudder and various planes, or wings. The machine rests on three wheels while on the ground and as soon as the engine is started it rolls along on the ground like an auto until the planes are tilted when it rises like a bird. A single propeller is used to furnish the power necessary to make the biplane move forward, this being operated by a gasoline engine. The machine goes at a rate of nearly a mile a minute. Beachey on his first ascent circled the fair grounds, being at an altitude of something like 300 feet. He came down with a rush, but guided the machine gracefully and the wheels struck terra firma without so much as a jar. On the second flight he went up over 500 feet and flew about four miles, making a number of turns and dips, the machine acting as gracefully as a bird.

Liverpool closed up 4 English points.

The total receipts at all ports down to today were 8,000 bales, against 21,089 last week and 19,518 a year ago.

Arrested in Virginia Charged With Retailing Whiskey.

Danville, Va., April 7.—V. H. and H. F. Harris, the two white boys who were arrested at Schoolfield Wednesday as being the men wanted at Henderson, N. C., for retailing whiskey without license, were carried back this morning.

The men were arrested and placed under a $300 bond for their appearance before court. They both jumped their bond and came to Schoolfield, where they began work in the Dan River Cotton Mills. The two Harris boys have been here for some time, and the officers have been watching them closely as being suspicious characters. They learned a few days ago that they were wanted at Henderson and they were placed in jail. The boys were nice-looking and well dressed when they left at 9:15 o'clock handcuffed by Sheriff Shelhorse. The sheriff will turn the men over to the North Carolina authorities at Burkeville, and they will be carried back to Henderson, where they will face their charge.

DRIFTING ICE CRUSHES STEAMER; CREW ESCAPES.

North Sidney, C. B., April 7.—The iron steamer Harlaw was caught in great fields of drifting ice in the gulf of St. Lawrence today and crushed to pieces. One hundred and thirty men on board escaped over the jam and reached St. Paul's Island where they spent the night.

BALL PLAYERS OF TWO STATES

Contest for University Championship in Greensboro Today, In Virginia-Carolina Game.

Today is Virginia-Carolina day in Greensboro. Hundreds of students will be here and the freedom of the city will be extended them; also hundreds of alumni and friends of the two universities will be here. The event of interest, the drawing-card, will be the annual Virginia-Carolina ball game at Cone park at 3:30 in the afternoon. The game will be witnessed by fully five thousand people, in fact the capacity of the park will be taxed and then thousands will line the outfield fences. Special batting rules will prevail on account of the monster crowd inside the grounds.

The Virginia-Carolina ball game is always the most largely attended game of the baseball season. The railroads have granted special rates and hundreds of people will be here from all parts of the state, while many Virginians will be on the scene. A special train will bring about five hundred rooters from Chapel Hill. The white and blue of Carolina will be flaunted to the breeze by thousands. The blue and orange of Virginia will also be worn by hundreds of supporters of the Old Dominion boys.

The Virginia team arrived last night and is quartered at the Guilford. The players are stoutly built young athletes and will put up a good exhibition. The probable line-up of the team will be Neff, rf.; Carter, 1b.; Douglas, ss.; Lile, cf.; Hume, lf.; Blakney, 3b.; Finley, c.; Duvin, 2b.; Wilmer or Rixey, p.

The Carolina boys will come up on the early train. The probable line-up will be: Pember, lf.; Edwards, 3b.; Calmes, 1b.; Hasty, 2b.; Lindsay, ss.; Hackney, cf.; Witherington, c.; Hanes, rf.; Duls of Lee, p. Under the coaching of Clancy, Winstons manager, the players have improved wonderfully during the past two weeks. The hardest fought game in the history of the universities is expected.

The people will begin going to the park about noon, in order to secure seats. The right hand grand stand will be reserved for the G. F. C. and Normal students, while the remainder of the seating capacity will go, first come, first served. The Public Service Company will operate special cars to accommodate the crowd. No vehicles or automobiles will be allowed inside the park.

On Monday the second game between the two teams will be pulled off in Charlotte. The third and final game of the season will be played in Charlottesville, Va., on Friday, April 21.

Whitsett and Trinity In Beautiful Game

Whitsett, April 7.—Whitsett Institute and Trinity Park School of Durham played an unusually fine game on the home grounds today. Fast and snappy ball was played by both teams.

The score was:

Trinity	100 000 001—2
Whitsett	000 000 010—1

Trinity's two runs were scored on costly errors by Whitsett.

Batteries — Trinity, Crowder and Lowe; Whitsett, Ray and Young. Hits—Trinity, four; Whitsett, 4. Struck out—by Crowder, seven; Ray, eleven. Time—2 hours. Umpire—Russell. Attendance—three hundred.

BIG LEAGUERS BEGIN DRAWING SALARIES SOON.

New York, April 7.—Nearly four hundred ball players will begin drawing salaries from the sixteen major league clubs on April 12, when the 1911 seasons opens throughout the country. Baseball sharps here figure that before the pennant races end the magnates will have paid out more than $800,000 for services rendered. It is conceded that the players in the National and the American Leagues this year will receive more money for their labors than ever before in the history of the game. There is no salary limit in vogue and the stipend range all the way from $1,500 to nearly ten times that amount.

In the New York Nationals John McGraw, manager, who is not a player, will receive about $12,000 for his work this year. Christy Mathewson is believed to be the highest paid ball player in the profession. He signed a contract last winter at an annual salary of $10,000, it is said. The two dozen other players on the New York team will average about $2,750 apiece swelling the salary list to more than $85,000, the high water mark and the record in professional baseball.

The New York Americans will also receive liberal salaries. Manager Chase will draw about $7,000 for his services as manager, captain and first baseman, with a chance to receive a substantial bonus if the Hill men win the championship. Russell Ford, the team's star pitcher, will get close to $5,000 and the season's payroll will foot up in the neighborhood of $65,000. Among the other big league teams the pitchers will, as usual, be the star performers on the salary list. According to current reports, the wages of some of the more important men will run about as follows:

Combs and Bender, Philadelphia, $5,000 each; Walsh, Chicago, $6,000; Mullen, Detroit, $5,000; Adams, Pittsburg, $5,000; Brown, Chicago, $5,000; Collins, Philadelphia, $7,000; Lajoie, Cleveland, $7,000; Wagner, Pittsburg, $6,000; Cobb, Detroit, $8,000.

Practically all the big league clubs except Boston will exceed the $50,000 mark in their salary limits.

Aside from the players' salaries, the expenses of each club will include about $8,000 for railroad fares; $6,000 for hotel accommodations; $6,000 for clerical work; $10,000 for rent and $5,000 for uniforms, equipment and incidentals, or about $35,000 gross.

High School in Ten Inning Game

The Greensboro High School team went over to Winston yesterday afternoon and played a ten-inning game, the score standing one to one at the close. The game was a regular pitchers' battle, with Coffin on the slab for Greensboro and Handcock doing the twirling for the Twins. Coffin allowed three scattered hits, while the Greensboro boys were able to connect with Handcock's curves but one time. Greensboro made one error and the Twins two.

State Files Appeal In Revenue Case In Supreme Court

Special to The Telegram.

Raleigh, April 7.—This morning in the supreme court Attorney General T. W. Bickett filed his case on appeal in the litigation of Governor Kitchin vs. State Auditor Wood in which Superior Court Judge Daniels ruled in the hearing below that the 1911 revenue act as to state property and poll-tax is void because of failure to observe the constitutional equasion between the two and that, therefore, the levies of the 1909 act must apply. The attorney general is insisting that the action of the legislature in raising the school tax from 18 to 20 cents and making the property tax, thereby 45c had the automatic effect under the constitution of advancing the poll tax to the proper parity, which in this case would be 1.35 instead of 1.29 at which it was inadvertently left, B. F. Dixon, as counsel for the state auditor, representing the other side of the issue, will file his statement of the case at once setting out the contrary contentions that Judge Daniels has sustained under guidance of the 1897 precedent of the supreme court in which Chief Justice Clark, in dissenting opinion held that the act was valid and the defect automatically remedied through the fixing of the property tax. The constitution requires that the poll must be three times the property tax rather than that the property must be one-third of the poll. The hearing is set for Tuesday.

MILLIONAIRE BRWER SURRENDERED TO SHERIFF.

St. Louis, April 7.—Ellis Wainright, a millionaire brewer, who was in Europe when he was indicted in 1901 on a charge of bribery in connection with a street railway franchise, surrendered today to the sheriff. He was released on $20,000 bond.

Wainwright was abroad when Circuit Attorney J. W. Folk who later became governor, began probing the bribery scandals in St. Louis. He was one of the directors of the St. Louis & Suburban Railroad Company, whose name, it is alleged, was signed to notes for $135,000 to secure the passage of a franchise bill.

Wainwright continued to reside in Paris.

Efforts were made by Folk to extradite him but they were unsuccessful and Wainwright's friends have tried to get the indictment nolle prossed.

Former Governor Folk was retained a year ago as special prosecutor in case Wainwright returned.

SAY BLOCKADERS USE TELEPHONES

By This Method They Evade Capture, the Revenue Officers Declare.

Special to The Telegram.

Raleigh, April 7.—The state board of public buildings and grounds has obtained from the forestry experts engaged in the surgical treatment of the oak trees in Capitol Square an agrement that the cost of putting all the trees in good condition so far as possible special treatment is concerned shall cost the state not over $1,600. There are five of the men and they have the job about half done after three weeks' work. Today they took down one of the giant "triplets" near the southwest corner of the capitol building. They regarded the tree not worth saving. The three leaned in opposite directions terribly, and were cabled together for mutual support. Just what will be the fate of the two unsupported trees is the problem for many curious onlookers.

New Hotel To Open.

It is expected that the New Raleigh hoted, Howell Cobb proprietor, will be opened soon after May 1, and then the Yarborough will close for repairs and remodeling that will include the addition of a couple of stories and the conversion of the greater part of the first story on Fayetteville street into storerooms. Mine Host Griffin, of Goldsboro, and associates are the new lessees. Mr. Cobb, who retires from the Yarborough, is owner of the Old Park, now to be known as the Raleigh.

Alleged That Blockaders Use 'Phones.

Raleigh is headquarters for the internal reveue district embraced in eastern and central Carolina and officers here say they realize that blockading whiskey is going on in very many sections and probably decidedly on the increase, but that the blockaders seem to have worked out a system of mutual protection that the officers are at least for the present unable to outwit. One officer expressed the view that the blockaders have worked out a cooperation with the use of telephones and allied watchers as to the movements of officers so that they always get out stills before raiders arrive. Time and again recently stills have been reported and officers gone for them only to find that equipment is gone, leaving only the evidences of recent service. The stills are now installed, they say, in a portable manner, the stills having handles and being merely set on an improvised flue so that at a minute's notice they can be lifted and hurried into the bushes. The officers say that some sort of secret service must be inaugurated if this new menace to their work abating the blockading is to make any headway.

School Rally At New Bern.

Tomorrow State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. Y. Joyner will be in New Bern to participate in a big county rally of farmers and the people generally for the purpose of establishing a Craven county farm life school under the operation of the state aid act of the recent legislature that allows $2,500 toward maintenance annually where the county takes steps to provide a $25,000 plant and assure $2,500 toward maintenance which is estimated to require $5,000. Similar movements are already well under way in Mecklenburg, Gaston, Rowan, Robeson and other counties.

Working For Immigrants.

The state department of agriculture is still doing considerable work in the direction of attracting immigration of farming classes to this state in spite of the fact that the immigration bureau was discontinued several years ago. Alexander H. Smith, induced to locate near Henderson for trucking and fruit growing, writes the department that he is now convinced that the glowing representations of the advantages in this state are quite inadequately setting out these advantages, especially as compared with the section of New Jersey from which he came to this state.

North Carolina Loses Citizen.

An appointment to become superintendent of the immense dairying plant of the Naval Academy at Aannapolis deprives North Carolina of the services of J. A. Connover, for several years in charge of the dairying division of the animal industry work of the state department of agriculture and the United States department jointly. The appointment has just been made and Mr. Connover will leave the work in this state in the hands of two assistants until the federal and state departments agree on a successor. Mr. Connover has been especially active in increasing the dairying interests of the state and says that the most marked advances have been in the middle western sections, notably Lenoir and Catawba counties where there have been established a number of profitable commercial dairies. The possibilties in this state he regards as very great.

Crew of Steamship Rescued by Cutter

By Publishers' Press.

Key West, Fla., April 7.—The United States revenue cutter which went to the rescue of the British steamship, Hannah M. Bell, aground on Elbo reefs, returned this afternoon bringing the crew of thirteen men from the wreck. The Bell was bound from Vera Cruz to Norfolk. The vessel is a total wreck.
